Flying across the Atlantic will grow in popularity.

Although bringing the Titanic's survivors, the Carpathia is really a death ship because of the sorrowful tale it brings.

Imagine the displays of heroism and cowardice on the Titanic—the heroes standing aside for the weaker ones and the cowards crowding and fighting for the first chance at the lifeboats. The artist, Frank D. Millet, one of the passengers early reported to have been saved, has a theme for a great picture if he can bring himself to paint the horror of the scene.

Max L. Powell of Burlington denies that he is shying a rock at more than one target, and so announces that he isn't a candidate for representative in Congress to succeed the late David J. Foster, but still is a candidate for lieutenant-governor. Somebody apparently was trying to throw the switch while Senator Powell was away in Panama; that's all.

The people of Barre have no reason for complaint as to the manner in which the threatened outbreak of smallpox was handled; and now that it is thought the disease was confined to two cases first isolated they will commend the local board of health and the city health officer for their prompt and well-directed efforts one month ago to prevent the spread of the disease and their continued vigilance ever since that time. The immediate isolation of the patient and the possible patient in the improvised pest-house at the city farm removed the danger in large part and was, of course, the wise course to pursue. By means of it the city was spared a serious epidemic and the consequent depressing results.

One question being asked is this: Will the president now change his style of fighting? He must observe the proprieties associated with his office, but within those limits he may still attack his chief opponent as he has not hitherto. Mr. Roosevelt has been assailing him personally; Mr. Roosevelt's campaign manager even charged him with being "the receiver of stolen goods." Mr. Taft must have a great deal of ammunition in his possession which, if used, would make things interesting for the colonel. Will he begin using it?—Springfield, Mass., Republican.

It is to be hoped that he will not. The office of president of the United States is above that sort of performance, and the man who occupies the office.

should appreciate the responsibilities of his position enough to maintain a decent attitude even in the face of undoubted provocation. President Taft, by refraining from personalities, will stand far better in history and, if we mistake not, he will make votes for himself in this instance. But whether or not it might assist him to secure votes in the Chicago convention, Taft is scarcely the kind of a man to lower himself to the extent of going into personalities.

WATERBURY.

The funeral of Mrs. Guy Scott, and infant son, Orville E. Scott, was held from her late home yesterday at 10:30. Rev. W. L. Boicourt officiating, assisted by Rev. E. F. Newell. Frank Towne was in charge and the bearers were business associates of Mr. Scott, E. E. Joslyn, W. N. Gilbert, Julian Ryan and D. C. Jones. The burial was in the village cemetery.

Congregationalists, as well as Methodists, are lamenting the removal of Rev. F. F. Newell from the local Methodist Episcopal church to the church at Barre. Mr. Newell has been in town only one year, but during that time has shown great capabilities in church work and his willingness to co-operate with other churches has been very marked. During the special meetings last fall, Rev. W. L. Boicourt, pastor of the Congregational church, and Rev. Mr. Newell worked hard and the fruit of their labors was the bringing of many from each parish into the churches. A rare preacher and a most excellent parish worker, Mr. Newell goes from here with the best wishes not only of his own parish but of the town. Mrs. Newell, too, has shown herself very capable and the Barre church is to be congratulated. Mr. and Mrs. Newell are busy packing and will be in Barre the last of the week. The best wishes of all go with them.
